Spiritory - München

Since August 2023, I've been employed at Spiritory as a full-stack web developer. My weekly tasks were organized through Jira, and our work plans were efficiently coordinated during weekly meetings.
During my tenure, I played a pivotal role in identifying the optimal push notification service and overseeing its successful implementation. My responsibilities extended to architecture, data structuring for new features, and the upkeep of legacy backend code.
On the frontend side, I took the lead in implementing responsive design using Bootstrap and SASS, ensuring an enhanced user experience.
